NEWS OF INTEREST TO FARMERS — SOIL CONSERVATION — FORESTRY — LIVESTOCK

NEWS OF COUNTY FARM BUREAUS

By Byron Dyer

Emory DeLoach was named secretary and treasurer of the Denmark Farm Bureau Tuesday night to fill a vacancy that existed in that office.

President Lester Waters reviewed the situation as far as membership renewals were concerned and the problems this brought up for serving committees for this year with the entire group. They voted to have a covered dish supper in March and every other month the rest of the year and to have the "free-supper" system the other months. That means, Mr. Waters pointed out, that a covered dish supper would be in March, May, September, and November and that serving committees would prepare supper April, June, October and December.

Warlock met Wednesday as usual and serving committees named for the year. Mrs. R. P. Mikel had charge of the program of games, which included a guessing game on heart candies and a drawing contest. Carl Bird won the heart candies and a visitor won the Barney event, beating President Barney Rushing on putting an overall, shirt and jacket, topped off with a fancy hat and cap.

The Sinkhole held its meeting Thursday night with a general discussion of things that came to mind, especially telephone problems.

The possibility of using milo in the farm program this year was discussed at all three of these

Smokey Says:

For most of us, our treasure will be in trees!

The yield was increased to 63 bushels. Putting the adapted varieties on good land, fertilized with some 400 to 500 pounds of 1-12-12, side dressed with some 60 to 100 pounds of nitrogen, with a well prepared seed bed, and cultivated about twice, will give a yield of 50 or more bushels per acre if the moisture is available. These factors need some two inches of water the first month, and three the next two months, and two the next month, to give the best yields. To produce 100 bushels per acre, the rainfall would have to be some two inches heavier each month. From charts kept in this area, ample rainfall is available seven out of eight years to produce 60 bushels of corn, when planted on good land, of adapted varieties, fertilized right, with 8,000 to 9,000 plants per acre (in 36 to 48 inch rows and 18 to 20 inches in the drill), and not plowed after the corn gets 35 to 40 days old. However, only three out of eight years give enough rainfall to produce 100 bushels per acre. The seed bed should be broken some six to eight inches deep, harrowed twice or more, which will just about produce the corn crop if cultivated once or twice with a weeder or rotary hoe and plowed twice, once when some three weeks old and the next one when 35 to 40 days old, and side dressed at that time. At eight weeks, or 56 days after planting, corn roots often are four feet or more in length. Plowing corn late destroys a lot of the root system.

SOIL AND WATER CONSERVATION

By E. T. "Red" Mullis

Soil Conservation Service

P. W. Clifton and sons of Silson are declaring war on soil erosion on their farms.

Last year's heavy rains, coming in a short period of time caused severe damage to their farms.

Mr. Clifton is to land that was once considered too flat to wash. Mr. Clifton is having a complete water disposal system installed on his gently sloping land in cooperation with the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District. The system includes broad base terraces with proper outlets, sodded waterways of bar his grass and sodded inlets for water, coming on his land from higher ground. It is very encouraging to see our farmers taking definite steps to prevent damage to our valuable land. Mr. Clifton is to be congratulated on his efforts.

R. P. "Bob" Mikel installed a fine terracing system on his farm last year and has had real good results from it. He brought up a subject which all farmers with terraced land needs to consider. Mr. Mikel wanted to break his land all in one land then come back and plow his terraces up. Old hands at this game know this will ruin their terraces over a long period of time. Breaking across terraces will tend to move the terrace up or down hill and finally change the terraces where they will not take the water off properly. It is better, and less work also, to break the land and the terraces at the same time but with the terraces, changing the width of the land between the terraces each year and even plowing back to the center every few years to prevent hollowing out between the terraces. In this way the terraces are maintained in the process of land breaking and not moved around.

I saw the results of breaking a big terraced field in on land above Clito last Sunday. The land was washed all to pieces just after the breaking was completed and before the terraces could be plowed up. It was a sickening sight. Now the terraces will need a major reworking to correct the drainage.
